TANKOA'S GUIDO ORSI ANNOUNCES A NEW KIND OF YACHT

MONDAY, OCTOBER 10 2016 / KATHLEEN TURNER

The Tankoa Yachts 62-meter S621 concept launched at the Monaco Yacht Show in September intends to deliver an elegant new benchmark in the luxury superyacht sector. Tankoa's S621, as described by Tankoa Yachts President Guido Orsi, is the unique result of design collaboration with Francesco Paszkowski Design Studio and naval architect Professor Vincenzo Ruggiero.

Paszkowski notes that the S621 is inspired by the first two yachts produced by the Genoa-based boutique shipyard, embracing the stern and bow lines of the Tankoa S501 and the superstructure of Suerte, resulting in an immediately recognizable signature in the new 62-meter yacht. Continuously applying advances in design, Paszkowski outlines S621 refinements, noting that "the windows become larger to enhance light of the interiors while the superstructure becomes even more rigorous".

An extended aft beach club with infinity edge pool, an elegant lounge, and handcrafted Italian workmanship expand the on-board feeling of the yacht, releasing physical boundaries to embrace the benefits of sea air and beautiful panoramic views.

Tankoa Yachts was formed in 2008 by a team of managers and an investor possessing extensive yachting industry expertise. Known for limited production, high quality yachts from 50 to 90 meters, the Italian firm is proud of their integration of business ethics, precision engineering, and Italian DNA in every Tankoa yacht, with quality, exclusivity, precision, and reliability as the hallmarks.
